1. Summary

- Republicans won 56 of 100 Iowa House seats on Nov. 3, 2026, down from 67 going into the election; Democrats won 44. Eleven seats changed from Republican to Democratic control, and none changed the other way.
- 9 Republican-held House seats were decided by less than 5 percentage points, by a combined 3,098 votes. 15 were decided by less than 10 points.
- 4 Democratic-held House seats were decided by less than 5 points and 9 by less than 10 points.
- The closest Republican win was House District 19, where Rep. Brent Siegrist won by 39 votes out of 10,287 cast (0.38 points). A recount in Pottawattamie County confirmed the result.
- Republicans left 20 Democratic-won House seats uncontested; Democrats left 9 Republican-won House seats uncontested.
- In the Senate, the 25 odd-numbered seats elected in 2026 serve until 2030. The 25 even-numbered seats, last elected in 2024, are on the 2028 ballot. Two Republican-held seats in that group were decided by under 2 points in 2024: SD 20 (Mike Pike, 44 votes) and SD 38 (Dave Sires, 386 votes).
- Based on these results and the 2024 holdover seats, Republicans will hold 32 Senate seats and Democrats 18 when the 2027 session opens (derived figure; it does not account for vacancies after Nov. 3).
- Of the 10 Republican House incumbents who lost on Nov. 3, five had voted for the 2024 hemp-THC limits in HF 2605, one voted against them and four were not in the House in 2024. Nine of the 10 voted for the 2026 medical cannabidiol expansion, HF 990. Its two floor managers, Sen. Scott Webster (SD 47, lost by 151 votes) and Rep. David Young (HD 28, lost by 740), were both defeated.

2. Method

- Source data: the Iowa Secretary of State's certified 2026 general-election summary (Clarity results site, election 127077, file dated Nov. 24, 2026) and the certified 2024 general-election summary (election 122322, file dated Dec. 16, 2024). Iowa Legislature roster pages (91st General Assembly) were used to identify the incumbent in each seat before the election.
- Margin = winner's votes minus runner-up's votes; margin % = that difference divided by all votes cast in the race, including write-ins. In uncontested races, the margin is measured against write-in votes.
- Ranking: Republican-held seats are listed from the narrowest 2026 margin to the widest. Senate seats on the 2028 ballot are ranked by their 2024 margins, the most recent contest in each seat.
- Net votes needed: a seat flips if the trailing candidate gains margin + 1 net votes, which equals about half that number of voters switching sides. Turnout in 2028, a presidential year, is likely to be higher. The 2024 total vote in each House district is shown for comparison.

- Differences from the WeedPress South Dakota report (Oct. 27, 2026): that report used a 0–100 index built on Republican primary margins, electorate size, open seats, cannabis roll-call records and county-level results of South Dakota's cannabis ballot measures. Most South Dakota seats are decided in primaries, and Iowa has no statewide cannabis ballot measures. Because Iowa's legislative general elections are competitive, this report ranks seats by general-election margin and shows roll-call votes alongside the margins rather than scoring them.
- Roll calls: House and Senate journal votes on HF 2605 (2024 consumable-hemp regulation) and HF 990 (2026 medical cannabidiol registration and dispensary bill). Votes were matched by last name to members who served at the time.

10. Data gaps and caveats

- 2026 primary-election data: only the two House Republican incumbents who lost primaries (Brian Lohse, HD 45; Jane Bloomingdale, HD 60) are noted, from Iowa Capital Dispatch reporting of Secretary of State results. The full 2026 primary canvass was not parsed.
- District-level results for governor and other statewide races (precinct data) were not aggregated by legislative district, so top-of-ticket performance by seat is not shown.
- Senate composition (32 R, 18 D) is derived from the 2026 results plus the 2024 holdover seats. Vacancies, such as SD 14, where Sen. Sarah Trone Garriott was elected to Congress, are not accounted for (unverified).
- Roll-call matching is by last name from the journals. Members who were not in the chamber at the time of a vote are marked as such.
- No Iowa-specific 2026 AP Voter Poll result on cannabis was found. The most recent Des Moines Register/Mediacom Iowa Poll on recreational legalization found here is from March 2021 (54% support).
- Term limits do not apply to the Iowa Legislature, so the South Dakota report's term-limit factor has no Iowa equivalent. Retirements before 2028 are unknown.
